THE MANNER OF SCORING

Will be readily understood by examining the first score sheet beyond, which gives a complete score of the York Round. This is at once the simplest and plainest manner of keeping a score. Each page comprises three rounds of fifteen ends each, which can be single or double ends at the option of the archer, thus giving the total score of two hundred and seventy arrows. In addition to the score, three miniature targets are shown on each page, on which the archer can indicate by a dot the point where each arrow hits the target, which will show him whether his tendency is to shoot to the right or left, above or below, the centre.

All scores are supposed to be made on a regulation Target of Forty-eight inches. If any other size of Target is used, it should be noted on the score sheet.

DIRECTIONS FOR STRINGING THE BOW.

Grasp the handle of the bow firmly with the right hand, placing the bottom end on the ground resting against the hollow of the right foot, keep the flat side of the bow (called the back) toward your person. Place the heel of the left hand on the upper end of the bow, below the loop. Pull toward you with the right hand and press from you with the left hand, and at the same time pushing the loop into the notch with the thumb and fore-finger of the left hand. The same rule applies in unstringing the bow, except the loop is forced out of the notch when the bow is bent enough to slacken the bow string, Send for "The Modern Archer," giving rules, prices, general information, etc.

Every archer should belong to a club, and every club should join THE NATIONAL ARCHERY ASSOCIATION.
